ABSTRACT

Approximately 1700 citations, from 1971-1976, plus fifteen issues of "Focus on Asian Studies," are listed in this cumulative index on Asian studies. It was compiled for any person seeking information (both print and nonprint materials) pertaining to Asian studies. Listed publications consist of newspaper articles, journal articles, papers, and books. The volume is arranged into 14 major categories: articles related to Asian studies; conferences, institutes, and workshops; summer study/travel programs; resource centers and related organizations; curriculum guides and bibliographies; Asian studies teaching file lesson (lesson plans); text materials for classroom use; multimedia materials; performing arts and exhibitions; periodicals; books; books for elementary schools; publishers of written materials; and publishers of multimedia materials. An eight-page listing of publishers of written and multimedia materials is included. (NE)

INTRODUCTION

This cumulative index, covering the past five years (1971-76) and fifteen issues of Focus on Asian Studies, is in response to many requests to have such a resource made available. Although there continues to be a steady, current flow of both print and non-print materials pertaining to Asian studies, many of the resources described in previous issues of Focus remain relevant and available for curriculum purposes. To provide a ready reference with identifiable categories for this material is the purpose of this index. It presumes, of course, that users of the index will have access to the designated issues of Focus on Asian Studies. It should be noted, however, that back issues of Focus, for the period specified and earlier, are available from the Service Center for Teachers of Asian Studies. Beginning with the 1976-77 publication year, there will be an annual index.

Even without a file of back issues of Focus, the user will find the cumulative index to be an extensive listing of what is available in the area of Asian studies, along with the names and addresses of publishers, producers, and distributors. It serves, therefore, as a valuable resource directory -- an aid in requesting listings and catalogs of current appropriate educational materials.

In some instances the addresses of publishers and suppliers of materials may not be currently accurate. It is hoped that there are only a few of these. An effort has been made to verify all of them, but with publishers especially there seems to be continuous consolidations with corresponding address changes.

In some cases, not many, publishers distribute both books and multimedia materials. When this occurs, the address of the publisher is only listed with the book publishers. In other words, if the address of a producer of a multimedia item is not listed under multimedia addresses, it will be found under that of book publishers.

Although not indicated as such among the non-book items on the first page of the Table of Contents, the following countries or regional areas are listed separately under each of the categories and sub-categories: India, Pakistan, and South Asia; Japan; Korea; People's Republic of China; Republic of China, and Southeast Asia.

An expression of commendation is due Lucia B. Pierce, the compiler of this index and resource directory. She has devoted long and loving, albeit tedious, hours, days and weeks to this project. Whatever value and utility it may have is a tribute to her painstaking efforts on behalf of teachers like herself.
